During Semester breaks I did an internship and also a Project on “Corporate Social Responsibility” at the Law Department of Plant. After graduating, I was blessed with the opportunity to work under a Senior Advocate, at the High Court of s. I worked under him for a year at the government pleaders office to get an extensive experience of court proceedings. Here, I assisted in drafting of affidavits, counter affidavits and research work in coordination with government legal departments. This job was of paramount importance considering it was right after graduation. Working in a corporate sector always used to lure me assuming it’s sophistication, remuneration and carrier centric, I joined Chennai Advisory, a service provider firm which primarily focuses on working towards advising and aiding in training, management advice and legal aid. I was given the responsibility to assist senior legal advisor Mr. . Under him, I had the devoir of drafting and cautiously verify documents prior legal vetting. I worked with him for almost two years. I then moved to my home town i to stay close to my family and worked under advocate Mr. , who is practicing at the District Court of . Here I had similar responsibilities as before, mostly drafting documents, verification of documents and research. After releaving from Mr , I took a break of 6 months for the preparation of IBPS exam (Institute of Banking Personnel Selection). I have the copy of the Admit Card of this exam. Recently I got the opportunity to work as a Compliance Officer at Epic Research at . It is an investment advisory firm located at Indore. Being the head of compliance I had a huge responsibility of representing the firm at Securities Board of India. My other responsibilities majorly required me to deal with day to day grievances of clients, assigning tasks to my associates and peers, making sure that every employee of the organization abide by the rules and policies of both the regulating authority and the firm. It is highly demanding job as I need to manage, organize and implement and report all the activities to the CEO of the firm.

My current goal is to evolve my personality and strengthen my career profile. I have been practicing mostly the legal side of my dual bachelor’s degree i.e. Bachelors of Business Administration and Bachelors of Law and I have always wanted to explore the prospect of my degree in Bachelors in Business Administration. You may be aware of the “Make in India” initiative, as a result of this initiative many new domestic and foreign firms have expanded in different parts of India. Under my father’s guidance and mentorship I decided to pursue further education from abroad, specifically Canada as it would give me the much needed boost and leverage to my stagnant carrier. Unlike MBA which follows a fixed and rigid syllabus that has been followed for decades, Post Graduate Diploma in Management offers updated, flexible, and adaptive curriculum that is tailor made as per the job market. Moreover, PG graduates are in high demand and are often offered decent remuneration to those who have graduated from a well-recognized college coupled with experience. After careful consideration and research I decided to pursue PGDM in Strategic & Global Business Management from College, Kitchener, Ontario. College has a good reputation and is well known in India and Canada for the variety of courses it offers in PGDM. It will not only help me kick start my career in legal stream but also would help me evolve in the business management profile. Pursuing a PGDM from an International College like will skyrocket my career from the current level. Some of the subjects which are aligned and will substantially help me are Organizational Behavior, Business Research and Data Analysis, Global Trade Law, Career Management and Sustainable Management, and this would ultimate give me outcome to conduct business in compliance with relevant national and international law, legislation, policies, and regulations to which ever firm I start to work with.

Canada is well known for the substance it gives to education and research while maintaining high standards. This is why the value of a graduate degree acquired from here is recognized globally. The teaching methodology in Canada includes more practical lessons, which is very essential when it comes to professional requirements, and this matches my goal of doing further studies. Another reason which encouraged me to study in Canada is affordable tuition fees compared to other countries. It is an undeniable fact that the experience and exposure that I gain from here will enhance my career. Throughout my interaction with a diverse student body, I hope to gain new perspectives and viewpoints which will help me in my career as well as personal life.
